FAST FACTS

Ruth L. Otte

President and Chief Operating Officer Discovery Networks

Ruth L. Otte is a business executive committed to creating a better world, and she firmly believes that television can play a critical role in that endeavor. As President and Chief Operating Officer of Discovery Networks, which manages and operates The Discovery Channel and The Learning Channel, she puts her ideals into practice. Discovery Networks' mission is to present television that enlightens and educates, as well as entertains.

Otte's efforts have won worldwide acclaim for The Discovery Channel, and helped transform a small, entrepreneurial venture into an international multimedia company that operates the fifth largest cable television network in the United States.

When Otte joined The Discovery Channel in October 1986, she established an environment where people are committed to working together with trust and mutual respect, dedicating themselves to innovations in customer service and the production of a quality product, while keeping an eye on the bottom line. She encourages open communication and strives to make everyone conscious of the importance of anticipating and quickly responding to customer concerns and marketplace changes. Most importantly, she believes that both The earned an enviable reputation for its innovative documentaries and nonfiction specials and series covering such topics as nature and the environment, science and technology, history, human adventure and world exploration. The Learning Channel, cable's premier education network, consistently offers people of all ages -- from pre-schoolers on -- an enjoyable, entertaining way to learn and satisfy their natural curiosity.

Otte is quick to share credit with her extraordinary management team, individuals who, she says, help her to continually learn and grow. She believes that learning and continually challenging fundamental assumptions are essential to the company's success. People at all levels are encouraged to innovate and take the lead to create and enroll their colleagues in collaborative goals and projects.

Before joining Discovery, Otte honed both her knowledge of the cable business and her management skills at MTV Networks, where she spent seven years, most recently as Vice President of Marketing for MTV and VH-1 in New York. Her prior background includes eight years of marketing and consumer research experience with major corporations that include The Coca Cola Company, Fuqua Industries, Inc., Eaton Corporation and ITT.

Otte holds an M.B.A. from Georgia State University (1978) and a B.S. from Bowling Green State University (1971) in Bowling Green, Ohio. She graduated magna cum laude from both institutions.

Otte is currently CEO in Residence with the Graduate School of Management & Technology at the University of Maryland, University College. Otte was the 1991 Chairman of the Cable Television Administration & Marketing Society and has served on its Board of Directors since 1987. Her accolades include: the cable industry's Woman of the Year in 1987; one of the Top Ten Women in Cable in 1989; winner of the National Cable Television Association's Vanguard Award for Leadership in 1991; and winner of Women of Distinction Award by the National Association for Women in Education in 1991.

FAST FACTS

Greg Moyer

Executive Vice President Programming Group Discovery Communications, Inc.

As Executive Vice President of Programming for Discovery Communications, Inc. (DCI), Greg Moyer oversees the creation and acquisition of DCI's programming both domestically and internationally as the company continues to add services worldwide.

Moyer joined The Discovery Channel at launch in August 1985 as Director of Communications. In January 1987, he was named Vice President of Marketing and Communications and served in that post until November 1988 when he was promoted to Senior Vice President of Programming and assigned to lead the company into original production as well as oversee programming on The Discovery Channel and, beginning in 1991, on The Learning Channel. Moyer was promoted to the position of Executive Vice President of Programming for DCI in January 1993.

As Executive Vice President of DCI's Programming Group, Moyer is responsible for the following areas: Discovery Channel-U.S.; Learning Channel-U.S.; Discovery Productions Group; Shared Program Services; and Corporate Partnerships. He is also responsible for the Discovery International programming division, with the exception of TDC-Europe and The Learning Channel in the United Kingdom.

Since assuming responsibilities for programming in 1988, Moyer has steered Discovery into an aggressive strategy of original and co-production. Among the first programs were Ivory Wars, the critically acclaimed examination of elephant poaching in East Africa, and Black Tide, a one-year retrospective look at the tragic oil spill in Valdez, Alaska. Discovery's first originally commissioned series, Invention, produced in association with The Smithsonian Institution and the Beyond International Group, premiered in the fall of 1990. Today, there are over 300 hours of original production in the Discovery pipeline.

As head of Marketing and Communications, Moyer's first contributions included launching the award-winning TDC magazine (relaunched in September 1992 as Destination Discovery); creating the first trade advertising campaign for Discovery; and designing print materials for Discovery affiliates and press promotion.

Moyer was also one of two project art directors responsible for creating Discovery's new on-air promotional package. The on-air look won the "Best of Show" award in the Broadcast Designers Association's 10th Annual International Design competition in 1988.

After graduating from Bucknell University with a B.A. in Communications (1975), Moyer worked as an editor for a chain of daily newspapers in suburban Philadelphia before leaving to incorporate as a freelance photographer, writer, editor and designer. In 1980, he moved to Washington and accepted the post as Director of Communications for the Center of Science in the Public Interest, where he designed and executed a media and marketing plan that drove membership of the Washington, D.C.-based non-profit organization from 25,000 to 80,000 members.

Moyer left the Center for Science to accept the post at Discovery less than two months after the cable service launched.

ALASKAN BEARS

Going where no camera has gone before, the producers of Alaskan Bears create respect and concern for these awe-inspiring creatures.

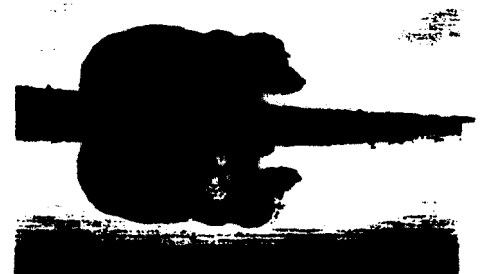

Filming with the aid of bear experts from the Alaska State Department of Fish and Game, Alaskan Bears' camera crews were able to get incredibly close to their subjects in never-before-seen, remote areas of Alaska.

The one-hour special focuses on how the bears have adapted to a tough Alaskan environment.

Extraordinary footage shows bears preparing for hibernation, searching for food, and going on "spring break" – a period when the usually isolated creatures enjoy each others' company. Breathtaking cinematography captures the land in which they live: volcanic mountains and rugged shorelines.

JUSTICE FILES

Justice Files, Discovery's new hour-long series, presents a gripping alternative to tabloid TV crime shows and superficial coverage of America's crime explosion. Emmy award-winning ABC News correspondent Forrest Sawyer leads viewers through real cases, getting into the story with real cops and real victims. Painstakingly reconstructed stories use actual video, participants and eyewitnesses. Justice Files doesn't stop with the crimes. It delves into the reasons for crime, examining how each type of crime
